

He Ain't Heavy

By BoneDaddy (original post)

He ain't. He's a medium height, medium build, medium complexion sort of a guy. But his footfalls sound like an elephant's. He doesn't stomp or anything, but the floor sounds like it is straining heavily under his weight. Stairs creak, elevators quiver, once in a while a tile on the floor cracks under his feet. When he gets into a taxi, the shocks strain and the car lists to one side. He travels long distances by train only.

Picking him up is easy - he's about medium weight. I'd avoid letting him step on your foot, though.
