

The Calculator

By lensman (original post)

Man in his late 30's, thin. Wears clothes generally just out of season. He constantly gets cables, messages, packages and messengered pouches, yet he is never seen calling or ordering anything. Kids think he is great because he makes fantastic paper airplanes that fly farther than any you've seen. He counts evrything, stairs, seconds between floors in the elevator, drinks people have in th ebar, revolutios of the ceiling fan in a minute, in an hour, ice cubes made in an hour by the machine down the hall, how many times you have adjusted your necktie, how many syllables you just spoke.
