

The Dead Zone

By McCoy (original post)

It is impossible to get a cell phone signal in one room of the hotel. Or a WiFi signal. Smells and taste are strangely muted there too. Any characters with enhanced senses will find that they do not work from that room, or on anything in the room even if they are trying to see it from outside the room. Almost as if there is a darkness field vs Everything except normal sight, sound and touch covering the room. Characters with Mental Awareness will report that the room feels cold, even though no two thermometers carried into the room will read the same.
