

Background Bustle

This spell, a variant of The Spell of Silence, alters the sounds created within its area of effect to match the volume and types of sounds already present in the area. The sounds of wind, a passing wagon, dripping water, a barking dog, or whatever other ambient noise appropriate to the location is heard instead of whatever appropriate noise might be present. Because the area isn't silenced, spells can be cast and conversations carried out as long as the individuals involved are inside the area of effect.
